Porsche Classic
The Original Porsche Crest

Precision work on the tool

Embossing

Applying the enamel by hand

It's good to know you can now get a genuine replacement part for something so irreplaceable.

The new edition Porsche Crest is being produced using special tools and based on original drawings. The gold plating is being applied using exactly the same technique as on the original, while the colour and enamelling are being applied meticulously by hand.

The traditional Porsche Crest has had to undergo extensive quality testing. This involved an alternating climate test at the Porsche Research and Development Centre in Weissach, for example, and a stone impact simulation carried out at a ballistic firing range. All of these challenging tests were passed with flying colours.

Further information about these and other Porsche Classic Genuine Parts is available on our Porsche Classic website at www.porsche.com/classic and from your Porsche Classic Partner and Porsche Centre.

High quality: Original Porsche Crest after stone impact test

It's not just about what's under the bonnet. The Original Porsche Crest for your classic car.

'The same as ever.' Can you think of a more fitting compliment for your Porsche?

Every Porsche embodies the fascinating appeal of the sports car, no matter how old it is. Even down to the smallest detail. The Porsche Crest, for example. As this is such an essential part of each of our cars, we've now launched a new edition of the Original Porsche Crest for your classic car. It is true to the colours, materials and details of the original version and, of course, it's also 'Made in Germany'.

Now for some background on its history: the Porsche Crest has always been a clear reference to the home of Porsche – Stuttgart. At its centre is the 'Rössle' (steed) of the official coat of arms of Stuttgart depicted along with the name of the city. These are surrounded by a composition of the state colours, red and black, and the antlers from the crest of Württemberg-Hohenzollern. Forming a protective arch over all the design elements is the Porsche logo. Incidentally, on the original crest this was only embossed and not finished in black. In addition, the red elements of the crest used to be more of an orange shade – like the state colours of Württemberg-Hohenzollern.
